2 The Real Estate License Examinations

The law requires that the Department of Real Estate (DRE) ascertain, by written examination, the competency of a prospective real estate licensee. DRE cannot waive this examination requirement.

This chapter discusses the examination process in general, details the scope of the examinations and includes practice questions.

A pamphlet titled Instructions to License Applicants provides detailed information about examination and licensing procedures. Interested persons may obtain this pamphlet and an application to take an examination by calling or writing any DRE office.

Additional information, forms, publications, and other items of interest to examinees, license applicants and licensees is available on the Department of Real Estate (DRE) web site www.dre.ca.gov under Examinees and Licensees.

Scope of Examination

Business and Professions Code Section 10153 requires that the real estate examinations test for the following:

- knowledge of the English language, including reading, writing and spelling; and of arithmetical computations used in real estate and business opportunity practices;
- understanding of the principles of real estate and business opportunity conveyancing; the general purposes and general legal effect of agency contracts, deposit receipts, deeds, mortgages, deeds of trust, chattel mortgages, bills of sale, land contracts of sale and leases; and of the principles of business and land economics and appraisals; and
- understanding of the obligations between principal and agent; of the principles of real estate and business opportunity practice and the canons of business ethics pertaining thereto; and of the Real Estate Law, the Subdivided Lands Law and the Commissioner's Regulations.

Preparing for an Exam

Unless a prospective licensee has had experience with the various types of real estate transactions and has thorough knowledge of real estate fundamentals, including the obligations of an agent and the laws and regulations governing an agent's activities, it is suggested that serious study be undertaken prior to taking the examination. Even persons well grounded in these areas will find a review extremely valuable.

This book and DRE's Real Estate Law book are useful study tools. In addition, public libraries and bookstores have textbooks on California real estate law, practice, finance, economics and appraisal. Real estate courses are available at colleges and private vocational schools.

Exam Construction

DRE's testing program follows guidelines set by the State Personnel Board and other test authorities. Periodically, DRE uses research studies to update the test specifications. Because there are differences in the level and amount of knowledge required of salespersons and brokers, the exams differ in their emphasis and difficulty.

Examination Weighting

DRE attempts to place proper emphasis on the content areas of the examinations. The exact weighting for each subject area contained in the real estate broker and real estate salesperson license examination is included in the current edition of DRE's pamphlet Instructions to License Applicants. This publication is also available online at the DRE web site at www.dre.ca.gov.

Exam Rules - Exam Subversion

The typical rules for examinations apply: conversation is not permitted; the use of cell phones, PDAs, notes or references to texts are strictly forbidden; dishonest practice of any kind will result in a nonpassing grade and may be grounds for denying future examinations.

DRE may deny, suspend, revoke or restrict the license of an applicant or licensee who subverts or attempts to subvert a licensing examination. Conduct which constitutes subversion includes but is not limited to the following:

1. Removing exam material from a test site.
2. Reproducing exam material without authorization.
3. Using paid examinees for the purpose of reconstructing an examination.
4. Using improperly obtained test questions to prepare persons for examination.
5. Selling, distributing, or buying exam material.
6. Cheating during an exam.
7. Possessing unauthorized equipment or information during an examination.
8. Impersonating an examinee or having an impersonator take an examination.

Materials

Only the examination booklet, the answer sheet, a special pencil, and silent, battery-operated, pocket-size, electronic calculator without a print-out capability or an alphabetic keyboard are allowed on an examinee's desk, along with the single page of scratch paper (for arithmetical calculations) which DRE will supply and which MUST be turned in with the answer sheet and examination booklet.

Question Construction

Test items are phrased so that they measure the applicant's knowledge without making him or her wonder about their meaning. The questions must not be too difficult, too easy, unimportant or inappropriate for any reason. No question is meant to be a trick or catch question. Words are used according to their commonly accepted meanings.

Multiple Choice Exam

All test items in the real estate exams are multiple-choice. While the examinee may feel that more than one answer has some element of correctness, the examinee must be able to eliminate the incorrect responses and choose the correct answer.

Q and A Analysis

The following analyses illustrate the proper approach to exam questions:

Question:

Under no circumstances may a broker:

- (a) receive a commission from both buyer and seller
- (b) appoint a subagent
- (c) misrepresent material facts
- (d) sell the principal's property to a relative.

Analysis:

- (a) is incorrect. A broker may receive a commission from both parties provided both buyer and seller have knowledge of the arrangement.
- (b) is incorrect. A broker may get prior consent from the principal to appoint other brokers as subagents to cooperate in selling the property.
- (c) is correct. A material misrepresentation is a violation of law.
- (d) is incorrect. The broker may sell to any purchaser provided the principal has full knowledge.

Question:

A valid bill of sale must contain:

- (a) a date
- (b) an acknowledgment
- (c) the seller's signature
- (d) a verification.

Analysis:

- (a) is incorrect. Although a date is advisable, it is not required.
- (b) is incorrect. The law does not require an acknowledgment.
- (c) is correct. A bill of sale is an instrument which has been executed (signed) and delivered to convey title to personal property.
- (d) is incorrect. Verification means to confirm the correctness of an instrument by an affidavit or oath. Verification may be desirable but not required.

Examinees should be alert for questions phrased in the negative: e.g., "All of the following statements are correct, except;" or, "which of the following are not ...?" In the following sample question, three of the responses would be correct. However, the answer called for is the incorrect statement.

Question:

A valid deed must contain all of the following, except:

- (a) the signature of the grantor
- (b) a granting clause
- (c) an adequate description of the property
- (d) an acknowledgment of the grantor's signature.

Analysis:

- (a) is a correct statement. The grantor is the person who conveys title to another and without the grantor's signature title will not pass.
- (b) is a correct statement. The granting clause is necessary to evidence the intent of the grantor.

- (c) is a correct statement. The property being transferred must be described so the grantor knows exactly what property is being conveyed to the grantee.
- (d) is the incorrect statement. An acknowledgment is necessary for recordation but is not required to make the deed valid.

Sample Multiple Choice Items

The following are examples of the types of questions that appear in the examination. No answers are provided. The results of practice should be checked against appropriate sources.

1. Judgment liens differ from mechanics' liens in that:
 - (a) mechanics' liens are created by statute
 - (b) mechanics' liens could take priority earlier than the date they are recorded

- (a) $3,276
 - (b) $2,820
 - (c) $2,740
 - (d) $2,548.
14. You are a California real estate broker. A prospect is referred to you by an out-of-state broker and you consummate a sale by you. You want to split your commission with the cooperating broker. Under the California Real Estate Law:
- (a) you may pay a commission to a broker of another state
 - (b) you cannot divide a commission with a broker of another state
 - (c) you can pay a commission to a broker of another state only if he is also licensed in California
 - (d) none of the above.
15. Edison sold his land with an easement appurtenant for a road. The deed to the buyer contained an adequate description of the land, but it failed to make reference to the easement. The buyer:
- (a) takes title to landlocked property

- (b) has a clouded title
 - (c) forfeits the easement to the servient tenement
 - (d) has the same right to the easement as the seller did.
16. If the broker, while acting as agent in a sale of real property, misrepresents the principal's property to a buyer, the broker may cause the principal to be subjected to:
- (a) rescission of the sale by the buyer
 - (b) a court action for damages by the buyer
 - (c) tort liability
 - (d) any of the above.
