

Frequently Asked Questions

Online License Certificates

Last Updated: July, 2023

Online License Certificates must be printed through DRE's eLicensing System

Q	I recently passed my real estate exam, applied for my license, and was notified that my license certificate is now available online for printing. How do I print this?
A	You can print your official license certificate online through DRE's eLicensing System . Once you log onto your free eLicensing account, you'll see a list of menu options, including one to print your license certificate.
Q	If I renew my license using eLicensing, when will I receive notification that my online license certificate is available for printing?
A	You will be able to print your online license certificate on the eLicensing System after your responsible broker confirms your affiliation.
Q	If I do not use eLicensing to renew my license, when will I receive notification that my online license certificate is available for printing?
A	DRE will contact you via email, at your email address of record on file when your license renewal has been completed. At that point you can go to your eLicensing account and print your online license certificate. To avoid delay, you are encouraged to renew your license through eLicensing so that your online license certificate will be available for printing immediately.
Q	I currently hold a restricted license. Am I able to print my restricted license certificate using eLicensing?
A	Yes, you can print a restricted license through the eLicensing System .
Q	I am a broker of record and currently retain many salesperson licensees. Am I required to keep the license certificates of these salespersons at my main business office location?
A	Yes, responsible brokers are still required to maintain license certificates at their main office location.
Q	Are responsible brokers able to print out the online license certificates of their licensed affiliates?
A	No, responsible brokers cannot print out the online license certificate. Each individual salesperson should print out their own certificate and give it to their responsible broker.